Compound Sentences vs. Complex Sentences

A compound sentence has two independent clauses. It is like two complete sentences combined into one. A complex sentence has a subordinate clause and an independent clause. The subordinate clause modifies a word in the independent clause.

Read the following sentences. Check the box marked "compound" if it is a compound sentence. Check the box marked "complex" if it is a complex sentence.

1. Kerry called the fire department, and they arrived very quickly. Compound Complex
2. After he got home, my father read us a story. Compound Complex
3. We couldn't go to the beach because the car broke down. Compound Complex
4. The magician pulled a rabbit from his hat, but the audience did not applaud. Compound Complex
5. The baby elephant followed its mother because the lion was very close. Compound Complex
6. The forest was dark and gloomy, yet the children ran into it fearlessly. Compound Complex
7. The campers stayed in the tent while the cold rain fell. Compound Complex
8. Jane and Louise bought popcorn before the movie started. Compound Complex
9. Peter worked hard on his homework, yet he didn't finish it. Compound Complex
10. The baseball player ran to second base when the pitcher dropped the ball. Compound Complex

Compound sentences

Turn each simple sentence into compound sentences:

Your first compound sentence should use a conjunction and comma; your second should contain a semi colon.

1. We ate lunch.
2. The rocket flew very high.
3. Emily sang a song.
4. The party at school was fun.
5. I hated practising the piano.
6. Ben likes eating fruit for breakfast.

Complex sentences

Turn the following simple sentences into complex sentences.

1. The girl cried all weekend
2. We couldn't believe it happened.
3. I had spent all my pocket money.
4. The window smashed.
5. The homework wasn't completed.
6. The bird squawked loudly.
7. The ball rolled quickly away.
8. They were really hungry.
